*Taking Park City review from Dimitri Moore, "On the professional front, Jazmin is wonderful at brain-storming several potential images that represent your ideas. The page will not remain blank for long. I gave her the ideology of the piece and its audience and she sent back various drafts in a timely matter. The finished product, based on a very collaborative process, was something that our entire crew was proud to be represented by. On the personal side, Jazmin has a kind attentive manner that makes you feel comfortable that you and your project are in good hands. Once an idea rises to the surface, she is determined to ensure that all parties are more than satisfied. I will continue working with her for a long time." May 3, 2011
