VISUAL ART | CURRICULUM VITAE

Kaitlyn Elphinstone is an interdisciplinary artist that works in digital media, assemblage, and with found objects. Having grown up in the Cayman Islands, her work explores the abundance of nature and rich coastal environments found on the Islands. She uses visual images to examine and comment on human relationships with natural environments.

Kaitlyn studied Visual Art and Art History at the University of Toronto and has a Masters Degree in Arts Policy and Management from the University of London (Birkbeck). She currently works at the National Gallery of the Cayman Islands. Her work is part of the National Collection of the Cayman Islands and she is a founding member of the contemporary art group C4. In February 2016, Kaitlyn was awarded a Silver Star for Creativity at the Cayman Islands National Arts Awards.
