watercolors

From the time I started painting, I realized that I paint in the spirit of the moment, painting what I feel, more than what I see. If I try to paint when I am troubled, the paintings just don't work for me.

My subjects include seaside and country scenes, botanical illustrations, animals, abstracts, and minimalism. Proceeds from a number of my paintings help support humane societies as well as humanitarian organizations.

I enjoy spending time at our cottage on Topsail Island and being with family, pups, and friends.

Every single day of my life, I try to surprise someone in some nice way, whether it is a lifelong friend or a total stranger. I try every day to help someone who needs me and to give more than I take, and I hope this spirit comes through in my paintings.
