ARTIST STATEMENT

To me, embroidery is the embodiment of the saying, "The days are long and the years are short". It's a physical process that mimics the forces of nature and the marks that humans make on this world, in the sense that it will take a while to see results. During a time in which we as a society are accustomed to instant gratification, I find delight in how the needle and thread breaks and changes the surface of fabric, slowly building a new narrative or serving as a reminder of an old one.
